150 Policemen Engaged in Wild Battle With Hundreds of Negroes

CHICAGO (AP) — Rioting broke out for the second straight night in a West Side neighborhood Friday night with about 150 policemen engaged in a wild battle with several hundred Negroes.

Police reported 18 policemen and 47 civilians, most of them Negroes, were injured in brick throwing and fighting. Police arrested 100 persons, mainly on charges of disorderly conduct.

They continued to patrol the district during the early morning hours and the situation appeared eased.

Police battled the angry mob up and down eight blocks of Pulaski Road in the Garfield Park district. The rioters, some on roof tops, hurled missiles out of the darkness at policemen and at motorists.

Windows in scores of stores were smashed and police reported much looting.

Friday night's fighting started after hundreds of Negroes came to the scene of Thursday night's disturbance for a civil rights demonstration. Fighting erupted after Robert Wiens, 25, a white policeman on his way to work in civilian clothes, was attacked and slashed by a group of Negroes.

A mob had gathered at a fire station Thursday night after 20-year-old Dessie Mae Williams was killed accidentally. She was crushed by a falling traffic sign which was toppled from its moorings by a hook-and-ladder fire truck responding to a false fire. Three firemen were suspended. Seventeen Negro firemen were assigned to the fire station in an effort to forestall further demonstrations.

Friday night's civil rights rally was in protest of the woman's death and an alleged lack of integration in the fire department.

But Lawrence Landry, spokesman for a civil rights group, ACT, told the group: "You live in leaky little houses infested by rats."

"Let's Kill 'Em"

Some Negroes in the crowd began chanting: "Revenge!" "Fight!" and "Let's Kill 'em!"

About 200 Negroes came streaming down the street after Wiens.

As darkness fell more than 500 persons milled throughout the district. Bottles and bricks flew wildly. Several white youths passing through the area were assaulted with baseball bats. An empty police car was overturned and set on fire.

Windows of cars driven by whites were shattered by beer bottles.

Police sealed off a four-block section of Pulaski Road, but new looting and bottle-throwing broke out near busy Eisenhower Expressway.

The rioting appeared unorganized and unled.

One resident said it was "a neighborhood eruption of people who are mad about their living conditions."

Gov. Brown 'Shocked' by 'War' in LA

ROME (AP) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California said today the rioting in Los Angeles amounted to a war and deeply shocked him.

Passing through Rome, on his way from Athens to Los Angeles, he studied latest news dispatches concerning the rioting and said:

"Terrible... unbelievable... absolutely beyond my comprehension."

Asked what measures he was contemplating, he said:

"From here it is awfully hard to direct a war. That's what this is."

"It is mob rule at its worst," he added. "I cannot understand it. Relations between different races have always been excellent in California."

Brown said he had been in touch by telephone and had ordered a "full mobilization of all state police forces."

'Anger, Self-Hatred and Mistrust of Whites'

Spread of Riots into Other 'Ghettos' Predicted by Pair of Psychiatrists

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Riots can't be solved with rational methods, although rational methods are what should have what happens to the common people applied before the riot and Negro. They see them moving into other "ghetto islands" in the area before they end, two psychiatrists said.

The two, one Negro and one white, both cite anger mixed with mistrust of whites as the probable cause of four days of violent outbreaks. They also mentioned what they called Negro self-hatred and anxiety about the future.

Dr. Edward J. Stainbrook, head of psychiatry at the University of Southern California Medical School, told an interviewer that until emotions cool the best course is force — a firm, nonbrutal show of numbers.

"At this stage," he said, "it middle-class Negro, the profes-

(AP) — Giant American B52 bombers from the U.S. Strategic Air Command hit Viet Cong positions only 17 miles from North Viet Nam today, a U.S. military spokesman announced.

Vietnamese government troops followed up the raid with 300 to 500 men. One of the largest offensives ever staged by the 1st Army Corps, U.S. spokesmen said.

First reports indicated there was no immediate contact with the enemy. More Marines Land About 2,800 more U.S. Marines landed at Chu Lai today to beef up the Leatherneck force in South Viet Nam.

Brig. Gen. Frederick Karch said there are now about 7,000 Marines in the Chu Lai area and about 29,000 in areas northward, which include the big Da Nang Air Base and the Hue-Phu Bai region.

Today's arrivals are members of the 1st Battalion, 7th Regt. downed by small arms or conventional antiaircraft fire.

Arsonists Set String Of Blazes

By JAMES BACON

LOS ANGELES (AP) — National Guardsmen forced their way with rifle fire and bayonets today through the riot-torn streets of the Los Angeles Negro district. But violence continued to spread in the fourth day of looting and burning.

The toll: 16 dead, hundreds injured.

The dead included a sheriff's deputy slain by looters and a Negro sniper killed by guardsmen.

Steel-helmeted troopers early today cleared a path through pockets of lawlessness on the city's Southeast Side but could not restore peace.

Rioters leap-frogged ahead of the troops. Arsonists set new fires after they passed. Other bands of Negroes in cars struck miles from the riot center in white sections of the city.

Blocks Burned Down

Whole blocks of buildings in the Negro section of Watts have been burned to the ground since the rioting began Wednesday night over the arrest of a Negro motorist by white police.

All the rioters are Negro. They battled police and firemen with guns looted from shattered stores and attacked white motorists—with shouts of "Here comes whitey!" and "Kill them, kill them!"

Few whites ventured into the 98-per-cent Negro area sometimes called Los Angeles "black ghetto."

At dawn a police official, who declined use of his name, reviewed the night's street fighting and said:

"We lost the battle. But not the point of surrender. We just have to bring more men in today."

Police called for National Guard help Friday when 1,000 law officers could not restore order.

State of Insurrection

The governor's office and local authorities declared a state of insurrection—short of martial law—and the first 2,000 troops of the 40th Infantry was diverted from summer training to the embattled streets.

Police said 5,000 National Guardsmen will be on the street today.

A fire department official said fire losses alone may total more than $100 million in the riot-swept sectors.

One fireman was killed and another critically hurt when a wall collapsed on them. They were fighting a fire in a looted market.

A huge portion of the Negro area was virtually a city afire. After midnight shooting outbreaks became more frequent.

Sniper Killed

Col. Irving Taylor, the guard commander, said one trooper shot and killed the sniper. He was firing from a building across the street on a police station in Watts, the core of the

LaFollette Reported In Improved Condition

MADISON (AP) — Former three-term Gov. Philip F. LaFollette, 68, was reported as improving slightly Friday at Madison General Hospital where he had been hospitalized since Aug. 3.

However, the hospital listed him still in critical condition today.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Civil rights pickets paraded outside police headquarters today after a night of violence in which two buildings were burned and 23 persons arrested in a prolonged racial dispute.

The fires in a Negro section were the first instances of property damage in this western Massachusetts city of 180,000 since the beginning of Negro protests against alleged police brutality last month.

The 14 demonstrators outside police headquarters said they would be reinforced by civil rights supporters from Boston and New Haven, Conn.

Henry Twigg, a spokesman for the pickets, said, "We don't want this to turn into another Los Angeles."

Police said rain that fell during the pickets, said, "We don't want the fires prevented a crowd from gathering."

Earlier, 23 demonstrators were dragged from the steps of the city hall after Police Chief John F. Lyons warned they could demonstrate on municipal property only during office hours.

Most were arrested on breach of the peace charge.

Record Crowd of 50,837 to See Bays, Giants Tonight

Packers Ready to Field Hybrid Team Consisting of Experienced Players, Youth

GREEN BAY (AP)—The 1965 Green Bay Packers will undergo their first baptism in battle tonight against the New York Giants in the annual pre-season Bishop's Charities game before a record crowd of 50,837.

After three weeks of hard-hitting workouts at the nearby De Pere training camp, the Packers will field a hybrid team of experience and youth.

"We have the best talent we've ever had in camp," says

Packer coach Vince Lombardi. The National Football League club has 22 veterans with three or more years experience among the 54 players still fighting for the 40 available berths on the team. There are 16 rookies and 16 players with one or two previous seasons of NFL competition.

Best Young Players

"Everybody said we had a poor draft but these are the best young football players we've ever had," said Lombardi.

The Packers' top two draft picks eligible for signing chose to play in the rival American Football League while the No. 3 man Mississippi end Allen Brown, will miss most of the season because of a shoulder injury. There will be nearly a 33 per cent turnover in the starting lineup tonight as compared with the 1964 team, but none of the first-line men are rookies.

The Giants will test two top rookie runners, Tucker Frederickson of Auburn and Chuck Mercein of Yale, and a new wing - T offensive formation against the Packers before a sellout crowd which will be the largest ever to view a pro football game in Wisconsin.

New York has lost eight straight games to the Packers since 1960, including the first of four annual Charities games.

This is the 1965 look the Packers will sport tonight:

Quarterback — Bart Starr, in his 11th season and signal-caller for the championship teams of 1961 and 1962, will again be at the helm, backed up by Zeke Bratkowski. Second-year man Dennis Claridge of Nebraska, who hobbled with injuries last year, was also impressive in last week's intrasquad game.

Backfield — Jim Taylor, will return for his eighth year at fullback. Halfback Paul Hornung, relieved of some of his

Braves Pound Cubs for 23rd Win in 32 Starts; Lemaster, Oliver Star

Tony Cloninger Goes for No. 17 In Chicago Today

CHICAGO (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves returned Friday to the site of the start of their National League pennant surge and showed no signs of slowing as they pounded the Chicago Cubs 8-3.

It was the 23rd win in the last 32 games for the Braves who started the streak by taking the second game of a doubleheader from the Cubs here the day after the All-Star game.

Gene Oliver, who kicked off the climb with two homers in that game, slugged two homers again Friday for half of the Braves' runs.

Luck 13th
The first homer of the day was Oliver's 13th. It was Friday the 13th, the 13th game for the Braves this season, and the 13th time they played the Cubs this year.

Ignoring any superstitions, the Braves celebrated the victory with 13 hits.

And winning pitcher Denny Lemaster fanned the final batter for his 13th strikeout.

It was Lemaster who appeared to offer the answer to manager Bobby Bragan's search for a fourth reliable starting pitcher to bolster the Braves' pennant bid.

Lemaster, going into the game with a 4-9 record and a summer history of sore arm troubles, returned to the form which netted 17 triumphs last year. He allowed only four hits until the ninth when Ernie Banks singled and Chris Krug homered for the last two Cubs runs.

Mathews Gets 3 RBI

But the Braves had already built an 8-1 lead before that with Oliver's homers bringing in four runs and Eddie Mathews knocking in three to run his club-leading RBI total to 75.

Oliver broke up a scoreless pitching duel in the top of the fourth with his first homer to the center field seats after Mathews singled off loser Bob Buhl.

The Braves exploded for five runs in the fifth. Back-to-back doubles by Felipe Alou and Mack Jones brought in the first run and Mathews drove his 26th homer into the right field bleachers for two more.

Bob Humphrey's replaced Buhl and walked Joe Torre Oliver then lashed his second homer far over the left centerfield bleachers.

Add Run in Ninth

Successive singles by Alou, Jones and Mathews gave the Braves their final run off Lindy McDaniel in the ninth.

Lemaster didn't allow more than one base runner an inning until the sixth when Ellis Burton singled and Harvey Kuenn walked. Billy Williams' single scored Burton.

Lemaster settled back down afterwards and struck out the side in order in the eighth. After Krug's homer in the ninth, he got the next two batters without trouble, striking out the last man.

The Braves were to send their top winner, Tony Cloninger, 16-2, against Chicago's Bill Faul, 2-2, who drew a weekend leave from summer military training to go to work this afternoon in the second game of the series.

Bleckinger Wins Chicago Net Tourney

CHICAGO (AP) — Dan Bleckinger of Oshkosh, Wis., out-fought John Pryor of Tulsa, Okla., to win the boys' 16-and-under singles championship 7-5, 7-5 Friday in the River Forest tennis tournament.

Pryor, Oklahoma prep champion, had captured the same division in the Wisconsin tournament when Bleckinger passed up his home state meet.

Kim Witsman of Indianapolis defeated Laurel Holzman of Wauwatosa, Wis., 10-5, 6-4 for the girls' 16-and-under title.

Holzman, president of the Madison sports club, presented Harris County with a check for $749,842 Friday for one year's rent on the Harris County Dorned Stadium.

Holheim said it was the largest single payment ever made for rent of a public facility.

The payment increased to $1-415,640 the total paid for the county since 1961 by the association which holds a 40-year lease on the $31.6 million structure.

Tommy Aaron Has Narrow 2-Stroke Lead in PGA Test

Dave Marr, Jack Nicklaus in Tie for Second; Casper at 140

By JIM HACKLEMAN Associated Press Sports Writer LIGONIER, Pa. (AP) — Laurel Valley's serene acres proved a high-pressure area for Tommy Aaron, a scramble for Jack Nicklaus, a pleasure for Dave Marr — and another nightmare for native son Arnold Palmer.

Carrying the tension of being pacesetter of an elite field in a premium tournament, Aaron led the field today into the third round of the 47th Professional Golfers' Association Championship.

Nicklaus, the Masters champion from Columbus, Ohio and solid pre-tourney favorite, skit-tered all over the hilly, 7,090-yard course for a one-under-par 70 and improved his position by a stroke.

The dapper Marr charged in with a 69 for a second-place tie with Nicklaus, each at 139.

And Palmer was socked with his second two-stroke penalty of the tournament for an unbelievable NINE on a par 5 hole.

"I felt the pressure of being the leader, it's hard to play out front," the soft-spoken Aaron admitted after recovering for a par 71 with birdies on the three of his last four holes. The 28-year-old Georgian, who fired a 66 on opening day, actually improved his margin to two strokes with his 36-hole 137.

"Don't ask me how the fairways were, I didn't see them," Nicklaus chuckled. "I feel like I played four rounds today — on four different golf courses on the first nine."

The Ohio strongboy, winner of the last two events on the tour, came in with a 70 — "and pleased to get away with it" — after a string of three birdies on his final nine.

Nothing But Trouble
Palmer found nothing but trouble. He started his round on the 10th hole and was severely jammed up by the 11th. On that hole, he hit a small rock in a gulley on a practice swing and wound up taking seven strokes. Officials presented him with two more for hitting the stone — technically, grounding his club in a hazard — after he had told them.

The onetime ruler of golf, now on a decided downgrade, posted a 75 on his home course for a 147.

A stroke back of Nicklaus and Marr, at 140, was steady Billy Casper, whose 70 included 17 pars and one birdie. Gardner Dickinson and Ray Floyd were next at 141. Dickinson blew to a 74 and Floyd took a 73.

Don Bies, Mike Souhak and R. H. Sikes were even par 142. Bies, a slum club pro from Seattle, had a 71 Friday. Souhak a 72, and Sikes a 71.

Defending champion Bobby Nichols was all but out of it with his 74-74-159. Mason Rudolph, one of the first-round stars, ballooned to a 76 for a 143. Sam Snead went up to 75 for 143 and U.S. Open champion Gary Player named "player of the month" for July in the Midwest League scored an amazing hole-in-one

One-Hitter by Loughrin Gives Neenah Valley Legion Crown

Strikes Out 22 in 3-1, 10-Inning Triumph Over Green Bay East

BY GEORGE MANCOSKY Post-Crescent Staff Writer

GREEN BAY — A two-run 10th inning and a brilliant one-hit pitching performance by Gene Loughrin carried the Neenah Legion to a 3-1 triumph over Green Bay East for its first Fox River Valley Legion League championship here Friday night.

The victory gave the southern division champions a clean sweep of the playoff series, since earlier they bested Marion, central division titlist. Loughrin permitted the northern division champs a clean inning hit and run and then pitched scoreless and hitless ball for the next nine frames. He struck out 22 and walked seven. The Neenah defense only committed one error.

Ludke Takes Loss
The Twin Cities had trouble with righthander Kurt Ludke before getting to him for two runs and four hits in the top of the 10th. The former Preble High School athlete gave up seven hits, walked four and whiffed seven. The Bays made four errors, two of which were Randy Schwartz, Burlington's slugging first baseman has been named "player of the month" for July in the Midwest League. Schwartz is the leading home run hitter in the circuit, with 26.

Green Bay got on the board in the first when Ted Wittig hit a one-out double, took third on an infield out and scored when a third strike eluded catcher Tom Walkner.

The victors deadlocked the score in the fourth. With one out Jim Bellin walked. Walkner forced him at second and took an extra base on a wild throw to first. Dan Jankowski hit a pop fly to short right and it fell in for a hit when second sacker Dale Schenian tripped and fell down while going after it. Walkner scoring.

Milliken Triples
Milliken opened the Neenah 10th with a triple to deep center and scored when the throw to third was off the mark and skidded away from the fielder.

Mike Malone singled and Joe Muench walked. Bellin forced Muench at second but Walkner singled home Malone with the second run. Jankowski followed with his second hit but Bellin was cut down at the plate, ending the inning.

Neenah had a runner on third with one out in the second but was unable to bring him in while two more were stranded in the ninth after a hit and an error.

Dodgers Beat Pirates, 3-1

Spahn Impressive, but Loses to Phils

By MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer

Warren the Wanderer may have found where the Wonder went.

Flashing some of the form that earned him the Wonder tag, San Francisco's 44-year-old an outstanding 135 earned run Warren Spahn came away a average loser as Philadelphia edged the Giants 3-2 Friday night but matched his highest strikeout total in more than four years.

Sparkling ERA

You have to go back to May 1961 — he won 21 games that year — to find a similar performance by Spahn, who struck Cincinnati 7-2 and Houston out nine Phils and had a four-out ninth before a seventh-inning error led to three unearned runs and his 14th loss of the season.

But Spahn, who has won only five games with the New York Mets and the Giants this season, Schiefel's throwing error on for two runs in the second in gives every indication that he Bobby Wine's grounder paved the way for Spahn's exit and the son, Wes Parker's double, a single by Jeff Torborg and a bases-loaded walk to Jim Gilliam.

Johnson singled and Cookie Rojas beat out a bunt. Spahn then forced in a run by walking Johnny Callison and Manager Herman Franks called on reliever Frank Lanza.

Lanza got Richie Allen to hit a double play, allowing the Pirates to score, but Dick Stuart followed with a single that drove in what proved to be the game winner. The victory went to Bo Belinsky, who brought his record to 4-8 with two hitless innings of relief work.

Claude Osteen checked the Pirates on six hits and contributed two hits of his own to the Spahn on second inning singles Dodgers attack as they defeated by Len Gabrielson. Tom Haller Bob Veale for the first time in After Wine reached base, Veale loaded, walk to Jim Gilliam Johnson singled and Cookie Rojas beat out a bunt. Spahn then forced in a run by walking Johnny Callison and Manager Herman Franks called on reliever Frank Lanza.

Lanza got Richie Allen to hit a double play, allowing the Pirates to score, but Dick Stuart followed with a single that drove in what proved to be the game winner. The victory went to Bo Belinsky, who brought his record to 4-8 with two hitless innings of relief work.

Orioles Muff Chance, Bauer Fines Powell

By GORDON BEARD
BALTIMORE (AP) — Manager Hank Bauer is merely disappointed over the mechanical failures of his slumping Baltimore Orioles. He feels more strongly about some of their other shortcomings.

The Orioles are still second in the American League, but trail the first-place Minnesota Twins by 8½ games after dropping nine of the last 16 including the opener of a home stand Friday night.

"It's getting a little darker every day, the way we're playing," Bauer said after Baltimore dropped a 4-2 decision to the Washington Senators and muffed a chance to gain on the Twins, who also lost.

The Orioles pounded out 13 hits and had base runners in all but one inning. But four double plays wrecked Baltimore's chances. The final twin killing came in the ninth as the Orioles made four hits but failed to score.

Washington made only five hits, but they included home runs by Willie Kirkland, Mike Brumley and Dick Nen.

Bauer revealed that outfielder Boog Powell had been fined for failing to get down to what Bauer thinks should be his playing weight.

"You've got to be in shape to play this game," Bauer said. "You might be able to play football at Powell's weight, but I don't know about baseball."

Powell's weight has been a topic of discussion ever since he reported to spring training at 256. He started the season at 242, but weighed in at 251½ in Los Angeles last week.

Bauer ordered a 10-pound reduction by Friday. When Powell checked in at 243, Bauer imposed a $10 fine.

Bunker Also Loses

"I told Powell I wanted him at 240 the rest of the way," Bauer said, "and I didn't tell him when I'd weigh him again."

Bauer also ordered Wally Bunker to cut eight pounds off his 208 figure, and when the pitcher weighed in at 200½, no fine was imposed. Bunker, a rookie sensation with a 19-5 record last year, is now 6-6 after losing Friday.

Powell, currently sidelined with shin splints, a bruised hand and pink eye, is hitting only .228 with nine homers and 40 runs batted in. Last season, Powell had 39 homers, 99 RBI and hit .290.

Powell, who will be 24 next Tuesday, insists that his poundage has no correlation with his batting average. But Bauer thinks there's a connection — and he's the boss.

Namath Fires TD Pass as Jets Win, 26-16

Huarte Also Gets First Chance to Play for New York

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Joe Namath missed the parade, but he didn't miss the boat.

Pulled out of a pre-game parade by Coach Weeb Ewbank, Namath made the most of his first start at quarterback for the New York Jets Friday night by passing for his first touchdown as a pro in a 26-16 American Football League exhibition victory over Boston.

Namath, the Jets' $400,000 rookie from Alabama, and $200,000 John Huarte were the headline attractions for the game at Allentown, Pa., but were among those missing as 10 open cars drove down Main Street in a noon-time parade.

Pre-Game Meeting

Namath, Huarte and holdover quarterback Mike Taliaferro were held out of the parade in favor of a pre-game meeting with Ewbank.

"There's a limit about what we can do with these players," Ewbank explained. "I can't develop a quarterback when he's in a parade. I know Namath and Huarte are popular and everybody wants to see them. But I want to see them too—on the football field."

He got his longest look at Namath and his first on-the-field look at Huarte against the Patriots.

Namath, throwing sparingly on a wet field, did not attempt a pass for 13 minutes but his first was complete for a 60-yard touchdown to Don Maynard. Namath wound up with four completions in six attempts for 80 yards while playing the entire first half.

55-Yard Strike

Huarte, who played in the All-Star Game at Chicago, came on at the end of the third quarter after Taliaferro had pitched a 55-yard scoring strike to Maynard. The Heisman Trophy winner from Notre Dame completed only two of seven passes for 31 yards.

Mark Smolinski scored the other New York touchdown on a five-yard run while Jim Turner kicked two field goals.

Babe Parilli passed seven yards to Ron Burton for one Boston touchdown and rookie quarterback Charlie Green ran five for the other. Justice Canale contributed a 49-yard field goal.

The game, which attracted an estimated 12,000, opened a long weekend of pro football activity in both the AFL and National League.

In the AFL tonight, Denver meets Oakland at Salt Lake City and Houston is at Buffalo. The NFL schedule shows New York at Green Bay, Minnesota vs. Pittsburgh at Atlanta, Baltimore vs. St. Louis at New Orleans and Dallas at Los Angeles.

There are three games Sunday, Detroit at Philadelphia and Cleveland at San Francisco in the NFL, and San Diego at Kansas City in the AFL.

Legion Teams Will Enter Sheboygan Meet

Appleton East and West will combine into one unit to compete in the Sheboygan Invitation Legion tournament beginning today. Eight teams are in the tournament.

Appleton warmed up for the meet with a 9-5 win over Unionville Thursday night.

Chiefs Practice in Kaukauna Sunday

The Mankato Chiefs will practice Sunday in Kaukauna in preparation for their first Central States Football League game.

The chiefs will open their season Sunday afternoon, Aug. 22, on Kaukauna's Bayougeon Field against Elmhurst.

Krueger's Wins Playoff Contest

NEENAH — Krueger's Sports Hub bested First National Bank, 8-2, in the first game of the best two of three series for the Neenah Little League championship Friday night at the Recreation Field.

The second game was scheduled for this afternoon and if a third is needed, it will be played Monday.

Lefty Jim Beyer was the winning pitcher and Steve Lokier took the loss. Krueger's had an 11 to 5 hit advantage. It pulled away with a four-run third.

Minnesota's 'Little Motor'

NEW YORK (AP) — Zoilo Versailles walks tall on the field now. He keeps his head up high. He has become one of the boys.

It's taken the 5-foot-10 Minnesota Twins shortstop a while but he finally has earned the respect of his teammates. That knowledge has helped make him a greatly improved player, so his much improved that there are some who believe him to be the American League's most valuable player.

Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees, a three-time winner of the award himself, this year he didn't do before. He's become more attentive, fed in is tops among leadoff bats, thinks no player has contributed as much to the welfare of his more receptive to advice. He's fers. In the recent Yankee series as Versailles has to Twins.

Makes Us Go

Billy Martin, third base coach before the Twins, regards Minnesota's outfielder Tony Oliva the best player in the league booster of the 24-year-old Cu-centrate on the hunt more. Once but for sheer value to his club, ban, who only a few months ago he develops that art, he's got a draw an expensive reprimand 300 average starting him in the "I call him the Little Motor," from Manager Sam Mele for face.

Involved in Squabble With Resident Pro

Scrambling Palmer Victim of His Second Straight 2-Stroke Penalty

LIGONIER, Pa. (AP) — A subdued Arnold Palmer was talking over his troubles, specifically those two-stroke penalties.

He has two of them, but to get to the second one, he had to go over the first.

"They were completely different situations," Palmer explained.

"The first one, Thursday, was a misinterpretation of the rules on my part — a technical thing. 'This one,' he continued after a disastrous 9 on a par 5 hole in the second round of the PGA championship Friday, 'this was something else. It was just one of those things. It couldn't be helped.'"

10 Strokes Back

Then the one-time king of the game, now another scrambler, 10 strokes back at 147, talked about his game. Spotty and uncertain and producer of one victory in 1½ years.

"I haven't been playing particularly well, but without those penalties I'd be in reasonably good shape."

And, if that wasn't enough, there was a controversy of reported dissent between Palmer and the Laurel Valley resident pro, Paul Erath. It all involved a tree that was planted on the course during tourney preparations over Erath's objection. Erath was reported at the point of resigning from a bunker, blasted out and two-putted from four feet.

His trouble came "in a lateral water hazard, a dry gully."

"I was in a bad position. I couldn't hit the ball. There was this little rock behind it. On the backswing my club just skipped off the rock."

"I wasn't aware of it right then. It's so fast, the way it happened. It skipped off the rock and then I hit the ball."

"Then I realized that hitting the rock amounted to grounding the club in a hazard. I called for an official and was of the opinion it was a two-stroke penalty."

It was.

"It's just one of those things," he said. "It's like hitting the sand in a trap on your backswing. Same thing."

"Was it an accident?" someone asked.

"Well, it sure wasn't on purpose."

Parnelli Jones Is Favorite

Norm Nelson of Racine, won the Rex Mays 100-mile big car classic here in June.

Foyle in Field

The field challenging him today included 1964 national champion and two-time Indianapolis 500 winner A. J. Foyle of Houston, Tex., road racing veteran Dan Gurney of Costa Mesa, Calif., Jim McElreath of Arlington, Tex., Jim Hurtubise of North Tonawanda, N.Y., and another two-time 500 winner, Roger Ward of Indianapolis.

McElreath won the Langhorne, Pa., 125-mile race last Sunday and has captured three of the nine big car championship events this season. Also entered was this year's leader in the national point standings, young Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa.

Many of the drivers will also participate in Sunday's stock car event. Nelson and Hurtubise will drive in the Nelson's Plymouth team in an effort to duplicate their 1-2 finish last month while Foyle, Andretti and Jones will drive Fords.

Stingy Defence

Defense — the stingy Parker defensive unit led by Henry Jordan, Ray Nitschke, Willie Davis, Herb Adderly and Willie Wood, is essentially intact except for the departure of Currie and the retirement of cornerback Jess Whitenton. Dave Robinson, the No. 1 draft choice for 1963, will start at left line backer tonight. Whitenton will be replaced by either Doug Hart or Bob Jeter. Second-year man Tom Brown, who has drawn Lombardi's praise, will start at left safety for defensive captain Hank Greenminger, who hurt his right knee last week.

kicking duties, will be bidding to regain his "Golden Boy" status. At flanker will be Carroll Dale, obtained from Los Angeles in a trade for linebacker Dan Currie. Leading rookie runner in the intrasquad game was Bill Symons of Colorado.

Offensive ends—Ron Kramer is gone at tight end, signing with Detroit after playing out his option, and Max McGee at split end is sidelined with a split finger suffered in practice Thursday. Third-year man Marv Fleming, 6-foot-4 and 235 pounds, will inherit Kramer's starting spot, while Boyd Dowler, who played flanker last year, has been shifted to split end to start his seventh season.

Offensive line — Guards Forrest Gregg and Dan Grimm boast 10 seasons and 500 pounds between them. Veteran Bob Skoronski is back at one tackle spot while second-year man Steve Wright of Alabama will start at the other one in place of Norm Masters who retired on the first day of practice. Center Ken Bowman, second-year man from Wisconsin, has added 20 pounds to his weight. Fuzzy Thurston and Jerry Kramer, veteran starting guards, will be seeking a return in the lineup after absences caused by injuries and operations.

Klubbers Duel Young KAC Team Sunday

O'Brien, Wachel Will Pitch in Benefit Game

KAUKAUNA — The up and coming baseball stars of the city will battle the older players who already have made a name for themselves in a benefit till at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Doty Bayougeon field.

Members of the Kaukauna Klubber team of the Fox Valley League will meet the Kaukauna Athletic Club team which competed in the Fox Valley Legion League. Proceeds from the till will be donated to LeRoy "Bud" Schell who broke a leg while playing softball in the Adult Recreation League.

Schell, who will be off work several months as a result of the injury, is the father of eight children. Bob LaPlante and Gene Vandehey, advance ticket chairmen, report advance sales good.

The Legion league team finished the season with a 7-6 record while the Klubbers were 6-5 in league play and have a 1-1 exhibition record.

Dave O'Brien, southpaw with a 3-2 Legion record and an earned run average of 2.06 will hurl for the young team while Leigh Wachel, another lefty with a 1-2 record, is expected to take the hill for the Klubbers.

Hickman dropped his fly ball. After two intentional walks filled the bases, Rusty Staub singled Morgan home.

Twins Lose, but Retain 8½-Game Lead; Orioles Fall

Boston Nips Chicago, 3-2; New York Downs Athletics, 3-1

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Double, double, toil and trouble — Shakespeare. Double, double, double, double — Washington Senators.

And that meant plenty of trouble for the Baltimore Orioles as the Senators pulled off four crucial double plays and escaped with a 4-2 triumph Friday night.

As a result the second-place Orioles failed to gain on Minnesota in the American League pennant race. Cleveland defeated the Twins 3-1 and kept their lead at 8½ games.

The Senators are lagging 16 games further down in eighth place, but they increased their lead to 121, extinguishing Baltimore threats in the third, fourth, sixth and ninth innings.

Pop Into Air

With no score in the game, Norm Siebern led off the third with a single. Russ Snyder then bunted, but the ball popped into the air, third baseman Ken McMillen grabbed it for one out, then fired to first, nailing Siebern. Bob Johnson followed with a single, and Brooks Robinson homered.

In the fourth, Paul Blair doubled with one out and continued to third as Dick Nen fouled the ball. McMillen again bled the key man, snaring Jerry Adair's line drive and stepping on third for the third out.

McMillen then teamed with Baltimore's Dick Brown for the other two double plays. Cullen Bleyary singled with one out in the sixth, but Brown grounded to McMillen who started the inning-ending double play.

McMillen completed his fielding show in the ninth inning.

Improvement of Health 'Sore Spots' Big Job in Menominee

District Doctor, 2 Nurses Have Largest Responsibility

BY RAY PAGEL
Post-Crescent News Service
KESHENA—Dr. George M. Shimmers, health officer for District 6 in Green Bay, makes frequent trips to Menominee County.

He jabs needles, counsels mothers, talks to children, confers with nurses, advises young and old. Nearly everybody in Menominee County, it would seem, knows Dr. Shimmers.

"There is more of a need in Menominee County than elsewhere in the district," he commented.

"But the Menominees are cooperative, and we have no problem on that point. They are very interested in themselves, and especially in their children."

The specific medical and health problems in Menominee County? A survey made in 1964 brought out these sore spots:

—Tuberculosis incidence has been relatively high for many years.

Excessive Drinking
—Excessive drinking must be regarded as a health problem, with 113 problem drinkers checked among the 496 families in the county. Much heavy drinking occurs among mothers.

—Diabetes is a leading cause of illness and death in the county.

—Fully one-third of expectant mothers receive no medical supervision.

—The infant death rate for 1962 was 63.1 per thousand, compared with 20.4 for the state.

"It was found that the health situation in 300 families (out of 496) indicated need for continuous nursing supervision," the report stated.

County Nurse
Mrs. Elaine Neta, a native of Neopit whose parents came from Germany, is the Menominee County nurse. She returned several years ago after 14 years of public health work in Florida.

Her recently-installed assistant is Miss Martha Stumpf, who had worked 12 years in Minnesota.

"Housing is a prime problem, and is a vital factor behind our health problems," Mrs. Neta asserted. "Too many houses are badly crowded, lacking in sanitation, and generally unhealthy."

She saw progress, though, and emphasized a positive side.

"The Indians are no different than the rest of us. They have come a long way since termination. Those who have been able to adjust have done a wonderful job," Mrs. Neta insisted.

'Difficult To Pay'
Dr. Shimmers was questioned about complaints that medical services are badly lacking in Menominee County.

"It isn't a lack of services so much as a lack of money," he explained. "The people find it difficult to pay medical bills, and more than the usual amount of public assistance is required."

There is no doctor in the county, and people go to Shawano, Gresham, Antigo and Green Bay to see one. As Dr. Shimmers pointed out, however, the same kind of situation prevails in small communities everywhere.

Many Menominees lament the closing of their hospital with termination. The federal government used to run and pay for the hospital, and tribal members went there for everything from pills and iodine to appendectomies and broken

These Five Menominee youngsters, just out of a cool dip on a hot summer day, face a healthier future, thanks to intensive efforts made in recent years. The main problem exists in lack of money, not lack of services and the fact that many Indians are used to welfare-state living. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Young Green Bay Boy Electrocuted

GREEN BAY (AP)—A young Green Bay boy was electrocuted accidentally Thursday night when he touched a light switch while bathing in his home.

The victim was Jeffery Krouth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Krouth.

A sister tried to pull the boy from the bathtub and also was shocked, although not seriously. She freed the boy and efforts to revive him failed.

Fox Valley Families Will be Surveyed For TV Ownership

Selected sample Fox River Valley homes will be surveyed starting Sunday by two area representatives of the U.S. Census Bureau concerning the ownership of television sets.

Conducting the survey will be Ann P. Roelofs, 302 E. Lawrence St., and Malinda Jones, 207 N. Drew St.

Four questions about television ownership will be added to the regular inquiries on employment and unemployment for the U.S. Department of Labor Statistics. The additions were made at the request of the Advertising Research Foundation and the Federal Communications Commission.

The questions will be aimed at determining:

—If the sample family owns a television set.

—The number of sets in the household.

—If the household has color television.

—If it has ultra high frequency (UHF) and the type of UHF receiver if there is one. A similar survey in 1964 showed that 93 per cent of U.S. households had television sets.

Progress With TB
Dr. Shimmers pointed to a good deal of progress with the TB problem.

"We did a lot of testing and found a high rate of incidence. We had up to 30 cases at a time at Hickory Grove. Now there are probably six patients at the sanatorium."

Some 300 persons have been on the special tuberculin drug for more than two years. Medical checkups are made regularly.

"I am sure the problem is being licked. It has been an expensive experience," the district health officer stated.

Immunization Clinics
Dr. Shimmers personally participates in many of the immunization clinics for pre-school children and others. Clinics for infants at three months and up are held monthly. Clinics for school children are held once a year now.

Very little gross malnutrition has been noted, but there is much room for general diet improvement. Dysentery, attributed to improper sanitation and impure water, used to be a problem among infants and young children but has virtually disappeared.

The two county nurses, the assistant being paid directly by the state, spend considerable time with family service and home visitation.

For the older people, Dr. Shimmers conceded, habit and custom are difficult to change, and that fact must be recognized in dealing with health problems.

"They existed under a welfare state, and there was no need to develop responsibility. Consequently, only a few developed real initiative," he said.

The next article, eighth in the series, will deal with poverty and the welfare programs of Menominee County.

An article in Monday's Post-Crescent regarding an Outagamie County traffic patrolman who was involved in a collision contained reference to Clarence Hartwig, 1406 Rexford St., Appleton, who allegedly had summoned aid from the sheriff's department, claiming that he had been shot.

Hartwig denies having made any call to the sheriff's department, but reports that the department said his wife had made the call, saying she had been shot and was about to get shot again. She denies having made the call. Hartwig said.

Appleton Will Tap Winnebago Water Supply

Project Won't be Decided by Referendum Vote

Appleton aldermen Wednesday night rejected the idea of a referendum to decide where the city should get its water and, instead, began proceedings to go to Lake Winnebago.

The action came at a special meeting of the city council called by Mayor Clarence Mitchell to consider a condensed report on the future of the water situation in the city.

After lengthy discussion of the report, prepared by Public Works Director Robert Bues and William U. Gallaher, water superintendent, Ald. Glenn W. Thompson (13th) moved that a referendum not be held.

The special meeting had been scheduled this week so there would be time to include the question with a referendum Sept. 14 on making four of the city's top jobs appointive.

However, weighing again the relative values of lakes Winnebago and Michigan, the council voted, 14-6, with Thompson's proposal.

'Get Out of Fox'

Gallaher was asked his opinion of which source would be better, and he said while he favored Lake Michigan, his major concern was that the city "get out of the Fox River."

Gallaher cited a recent report on raw, unfiltered, untreated water from the river which described it as among the worst in the nation as far as pollution is concerned.

After the vote on the referendum, there was a move to adjourn the meeting, but Ald. Alvin E. Tewes (5th) asked what the council should do next. He agreed with others it was "unfair to the voters" to put the matter to a referendum because it was difficult to supply to all enough technical background.

The council finally agreed, 13-7, to authorize the water department and the board of public works to select a consulting engineer to proceed with preparing preliminary plans and specifications for developing Lake Winnebago as the city's water supply.

Lake Michigan has been preferred over Winnebago by some because of an algae problem in Winnebago which creates odor and tastes which are, according to water experts, difficult to remove.

However, Gallaher said Wednesday night that pollution levels are about the same in both bodies of water. Extra treatment will be required for Winnebago water, though, because of the algae.

Cost of the Winnebago project is estimated at about $2.5 million. Most of this system, according to reports, will be usable when the time comes that the city will go to Lake Michigan.

That the city eventually will construct a pipeline to Lake Michigan is inevitable, experts said Wednesday night. The cost of that, however, would be more than $15 million at current construction costs.

Several aldermen were worried the interest bonds for that $15 million would eat up enough funds to pay the cost of the Lake Winnebago project.

In addition, many believed the city eventually would join with others in the Valley area to pay the cost of a pipe to Lake Michigan.

Experts have said virtually all the cities in the Valley eventually will be forced to look elsewhere for water than the Fox River and Lake Winnebago.

Chilton Blue Birds Schedule Day Camp at Fairgrounds

CHILTON — Plans have been completed for the annual Blue Bird day camp to be held Wednesday and Thursday at the Calumet County Fairgrounds, according to Mrs. D. H. Schora, chairman of the Mah-Te-Ca Camp Fire Girls Association.

Miss Mary Beth Kruse, a University of Wisconsin senior, will direct the two-day session. A former assistant director of the Chilton summer playground program, Miss Kruse also is a licensed nurses' aide.

Camp registration will begin at 9 a.m. and the day's activities will close at 3:30 p.m. A program of nature study hikes, handicraft, games, story and song time has been planned.

Bring Lunch

Girls attending the day camp are asked to bring their own "nose-bag" lunches. Beverages

Superior Man To be National VFW Head

Andrew Borg, a Superior attorney, will become the National Commander-in-Chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars at the 66th annual convention in Chicago, Aug. 13-20.

Borg is the first Wisconsin man to hold this high office since 1948 when Lyall T. Beggs, Madison, was commander of the 1½ million members.

Gov. Warren Knowles, who will represent the state of Wisconsin, will make the second opening speech of Borg's nomination when the annual election of officers is held Friday.

Loran F. Patten, Horicon, state V.F.W. Commander who will introduce Gov. Knowles, and Mrs. William Frank, Manitowish, state auxiliary president, will head the Wisconsin delegations.

Legislation to protect veterans' benefits and the backing of an all-out effort in Viet Nam, to meet the challenge of International Communism overseas and its converts here at home, will highlight the business sessions.

The V.F.W. will go on record to open its membership rolls to the veterans of the fighting in South Viet Nam.

A parade Tuesday and the Million Dollar Pageant of Drums competition Wednesday are other convention highlights.

Sales Practice Charges Halted At Fond du Lac

Appleton Trio Had Been Scheduled to Appear Monday

Special to the Post-Crescent

FOND DU LAC — Charges of illegal sales practices against three Appleton men were dismissed Thursday at the request of Fond du Lac County Dist. Atty. Thomas Massey.

The three men had pleaded innocent and were to have appeared Monday in County Court Branch 2.

The men are Edward Rath Jr., Appleton, who was charged with 10 counts; William Brandt, 525 S. Schaeffer St., Appleton, two counts; and James Wisner, 629 E. Coolidge Ave., Appleton, two counts.

Massey said he requested the dismissal of the charges after conducting an extensive investigation. He said his study showed if there was an offense, it was not the fault of the three men, who were employed as salesmen for a central vacuum cleaner firm.

They were arrested in July and had been free on their own cognizance.

Stockbridge Football Practice Starts Monday

STOCKBRIDGE — The Stockbridge football team will meet with Coach Charles Thompson at 6:30 p.m. Monday at the high school gym.

Equipment will be passed out at this time and Tuesday. First practice will be Wednesday.

Players must have their physicals completed by this date, Thompson said.

Wolf River Planning Budget Hits $43,331

Bubolz Asks $5 Million For Indians

In a letter to President Lyndon B. Johnson, dated August 10, Gordon A. Bubolz, chairman of the Wolf River Basin Regional Planning Commission, has asked for immediate action to help the Menominee Indians.

Bubolz pointed out that when the Menominees declared to be an independent county, there was an oversight or failure to allow a sufficient grant for economic development.

The commission chairman said there must be industry compatible with resources, jobs so the people will have income, to enable them to earn a decent livelihood. Bubolz said in his opinion a grant of not less than $5 million should have been included for this purpose at the time of termination.

Bubolz asked that the phase-out aids for health, education and welfare, be extended for another five-year period, and that the Menominees be given economic development help or they would have the prospect of extreme poverty and loss of the lands that were turned over to them.

Basin Regional Commission Unanimously Re-elects Officers An Annual Meeting in Laona

LAONA — A 1966 budget of $43,331, up $3,631 over last year's $37,700, was adopted at the annual meeting of the Wolf River Basin Regional Planning Commission Thursday in this Forest County community.

Officers unanimously re-elected were Gordon A. Bubolz, Appleton, chairman; Jerome Grignon, Neopit, vice-chairman; Alfred Broehm, Winneconne, secretary; and Henry Alhiser, Shawano, treasurer.

Other reports were given by Murel Edinger, Appleton, Wolf Country Inc., executive secretary; Robert Rogers, Ogdensburg, Forestry Advisory Committee chairman and Vern Geiger, Appleton, Outagamie county soil conservationist.

Walter Johnson, department of research development, presented the final phase of the preliminary plans for the commission. His plan included public improvement needs, a continuing planning program, financial aid program and zoning and subdivision ordinances and a building and sanitary code.

Nineteen recommendations were brought up by the committee, including the definition of land and water use within 1,000 feet of the water's edge, work on sewage disposal systems and a proposal to fight public apathy and lack of understanding.

The largest increase in the budget came in wages and related expenses of the planning staff from $15,000 to $27,500 for a jump of $12,500.

An additional $7,500 will be raised via tax levy for promotional purposes. Portions of this will be used for a promotion brochure, sports show representation and operation of a regional information center during the summer for tourists.

The commissioners were told of a need for a hydrologist, a land use man, a draftsman, a design specialist and an economic specialist.

In a chairman's report, Bubolz listed the accomplishments during the past year which included the blocking of a bill to purchase 200,000 acres of land in Menominee County. Grignon said the support of the commission has upped the morale of the newest Wisconsin county.

Bubolz also listed aims of the oncoming year as combating destruction of the beauty and wild river features of Menominee County in trying to work out a feasible preservation program.

He pointed out other projects being sponsored by the commission which include Mt. Morris Hills projects, high priority recreation lands, roadside beauty work, water resources study, river bank stabilization, community recreation lakes, wildlife development, recreation promotion, preservation of Hayman

Fire Destroys Barn, Shed

Extensive Damage At Weyauwega

WEYAUWEGA — A 140-foot-long barn and a machine shed were lost in a fire Friday on the Abe Cohen Farm on Waupaca County X in Town of Lind, three miles west of here.

The Weyauwega Rural Fire Department was called at 2:30 p.m. when the blaze was discovered by a hired man. Fire Chief Jean Clark said the barn was too far gone to be saved when his men arrived.

Although no official estimates of damage have been given except that "extensive damage" had occurred, the loss of the barn, machine shed, 10,000 bales of hay, 3,000 bales of straw, one bull, six heifers and some machinery may reach the hundreds of thousands dollars damage.

Underdetermined Origin
Also lost in the blaze of undetermined origin was a modern bulk type milk house. The milk had been picked up earlier in the morning.

Clark said cause of the fire was not known, although he did not rule out the possibility of spontaneous combustion of the freshly-harvested hay stored in the barn.

A nearby combination corn crib-grainery was salvaged when firemen sprayed the building with water to prevent its starting fire.

Three silos standing next to the barn were saved although two and one-half tons of ground feed and 12 feet of silage were destroyed.

Water Hauled

Rural and Town of Lind firemen assisted the fire department in extinguishing the blaze and hauled water through the night while a fire watch was in effect to keep a wind change from restarting the fire.

Observers said the house, approximately 200 feet north of the barn, was very hot and could have ignited at any time. Firemen remained to stand watch at the scene to keep the fire from breaking out again.

Although the farm is owned by Cohen, a Weyauwega cattle dealer, the Kenneth Batton family are employed by him and live on the farm.

Flames Destroyed a large modern barn on the Abe Cohen farm, route 2, Weyauwega, late Friday afternoon. A machine shed adjacent to the barn was also ravaged by the flames. Lost in the blaze was a complete crop of hay facilities for more than 60 head of cattle and a large bulk type milk storage house. Weyauwega firemen battled the blaze for more than 12 hours with neighbors and fire equipment transporting water to the scene. (Post-Crescent Photo)

5-Man Committee to Redraw Ward Lines in New London

Area Located In Waupaca Changing

NEW LONDON—A five-man committee has been named to work out a plan for reapportioning the city's four wards in Waupaca County.

The third ward, which is located in Outagamie County, would have no bearing on any realignment in the other four wards as far as choosing supervisors.

Emil Gehrke was named as chairman of the group at the Aug. 2 meeting of the planning commission. Gehrke, fourth ward county supervisor, was a member of the Waupaca County reapportioning committee.

Appointed to the committee were William Freiburger, Alfred Lau, Lansing, McPaul and Len Rice.

Committee Members

Freiburger was a member of the planning commission until last winter when he resigned. Lau is a member of the board of education and McPaul and Rice are former aldermen.

In 1960 New London had a population of 5,288, with 4,066 of these living in Waupaca County. Reapportioning of county supervisors by the county was done on the use of the census figures. Information to be used in a city directory will be put to use in apportioning the city and setting new boundary lines.

Wanda Huebner was hired by the city to keep a block tally of the population as she gathered directory information for use in the reapportionment.

Word May Be Divided

Where the boundary lines will be set is only conjecture at this time since the committee has not met to date. A general feeling among city officials, however, is that the second and fifth wards, located north of the Wolf River, would be made into one ward and the south side split into three wards.

At first glance, using Census Bureau figures, this appears to be lopsided, but growth in the city has been concentrated in the southern portion. A combining of the second and fifth wards would be a total of 1,183 persons, using the census figures.

This leaves a 1960 population of 2,883 persons in the first and fourth wards to be divided into three districts. With growth as it has been over the five years since the census, it is believed these wards would have about 3,000 persons each.

New London's third ward has a population of 1,222 persons, but is being reapportioned under the Waupaca district.

Weyauwega Has Nine New Teachers

Expand Art Program To Include Beginner, Advanced Classes

WEYAUWEGA—The high school will have several new additions to the faculty this year including Lowell Baltz, hired to teach science and biology and William Sexton, business department instructor. The art program has been expanded with instructions two hours a day by Mrs. Florence Oehlke. Beginning and advanced classes will be offered.

Donald McLellan has been hired as the new elementary principal at the grade school and Wendell Hillskotter will replace Larry Fritzmaurice as agriculture instructor.

Mrs. Ronald Wiesman will teach English, replacing Max Harrington.

Other new teachers at Weyauwega are Dorothy Wilkens, elementary and high school music; Mrs. Gladys Morris, sixth grade; and Miss Gail Ratliff, seventh grade.

Peter Smith will teach at the Fremont Grade School, part of the Weyauwega district.

FVL Dedicates New School Plant Sunday

Addition Includes Two Wings, Almost Doubles Floor Space

Four years of planning and fund-raising will be climaxed Sunday when Fox Valley Lutheran High School dedicates a $500,000 addition during a 2 p.m. special service.

The addition of two wings to the 1957 plant will almost double school floor space, officials said. The Rev. John Dahlke, pastor of St. Peter Lutheran Church, Weyauwega, and president of the North Wisconsin District of the Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod, will deliver the sermon.

The Rev. Arnold Meyer, chairman of the FVL Board of Regents and pastor of St. John Lutheran Church, route 2, Appleton, will serve as liturgist.

Delivers Key
The act of dedicating the expanded areas of the school will be symbolized when Arthur Nimmer, general contractor, delivers the school key to Architect Raymond LaVee, who will formally unlock the doors.

Assisting him will be Melvin Prahl, chairman of the Lutheran High Federation's building and grounds committee and the Rev. Harold Warnke, school principal.

The FVL Concert Choir, under the direction of Gerhard Roloff, will sing "Sateren's Praise We God the Father's Name" and "Lord, My God," by Luetzel.

An offering will be taken for the school's equipment fund.

The public is invited to attend the open house from 3 to 5:30 p.m. Student guides will conduct tours through the new facilities.

More Openings In Naval Reserve

In order to meet the responsibilities of strengthening the Naval forces recently announced by Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara, the Appleton Naval Reserve has increased its number of openings for men who anticipate induction.

Under this program, he stated, eligible men who will be drafted in the next three months may instead join the Appleton Naval Reserve and assure themselves of deferring their active military service for one year.

At that time, the reservist participates in two years of active duty, the same length of time now applicable to draftees.

Vacation Business Has Boom Year in State

MADISON—State vacation industry promoters are searching for superlatives to describe the crowded tourist traffic in the state this summer.

"Best ever," the description of Harry Thoma of the state conservation department's vacation publicity bureau sums up their assessment.

Thoma expressed a wish for a reliable reporting system on the patronage of Wisconsin vacation centers, resorts, tourist motels and associated facilities, but hazardous a confident assessment that the Wisconsin vacation facilities have never been more crowded, and the merchants and service trades catering to holiday visitors never more content.

One apparent reason is the legislature's decision to beef up the state's official vacation advertising budget with more money.

The continuing prosperity of the country as a whole has had its effect in funneling more money into the holiday market, but state officials also observed an immediate spurt in inquiries from prospective Wisconsin visitors when their larger advertising budgets became effective earlier in the year.

At the end of July, for example, the number of inquiries from non-residents to Thoma's office had equalled the total for all of 1964.

Two Trends
Meanwhile, observers have spotted a continuation of two trends that became visible earlier in the decade and are watching them for their long-range effect upon the vital Wisconsin vacation economy.

First, the "tourists," as distinguished from "vacationers" who settle down at a resort to spend their vacations at ease, are significantly increasing in number. More vacationers tend to move from place to place during their holiday periods.

Secondly, there is a continuing increase in the number of visitors who come to Wisconsin for camping, rather than to take their leisure at resorts after the custom of earlier decades.

Police Investigate Bloody Jacket
Outagamie County authorities Friday were investigating a report from the county highway department that a bloody jacket had been found buried along the side of a highway.

Highway department workers found the jacket, which they said had blood stains on it, buried next to a stop sign at U.S. 41 and 10.

Town of Brillion Shows Decline In Valuation

FOREST JUNCTION — The 1965 assessed valuation of the Town of Brillion shows a decline of $9,192 from last year's report, according to Town Clerk Ross Hacker. Reason for the decline is a decrease in agricultural value, despite modest gains in residential and mercantile valuation.

This year's aggregate assessment is $3,450,277, compared to last year's $3,459,469.

Agricultural lands, valued at $1,890,755 last year, dropped to $1,880,885 in the 1965 assessment roll. Livestock on farms valued at $472,940 in 1964 has dropped to $449,609. The number of cattle, listed last year at 5,912 head, is down to 5,619 and the count on swine has fallen from 356 to 280. There are only four sheep in the present assessment roll. Last year there were 13.

Arrests dropped by 13 from a registering 10 solicitors and Youth Fellowship will hold a retreat after the service.

Newcomers, Veterans Attracted to Church Camp at Forest Junction

BY ROBERT HAESE
Post-Crescent Correspondent

FOREST JUNCTION — There are those of course who are attending for the first time. And there are those who boasted attendance records of 10, 20 and more years at the annual camp meeting held here this week by the Eastern District of the Wisconsin Conference of the Evangelical United Brethren Church.

But the actual roots of the annual 10-day event which closes here Sunday go back beyond the present generation, to the time when circuit riding preachers from northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin made their first visits to the earliest when a Forest Junction Circuit settlements in the primitive Camp Meeting Association was forest of this section of the state.

The idea of preachers ased and a tent city would be circuit riders survived in the erected for a short period each initial organized effort of 1906 year.

Flame Buildings

People from over a wide area were attracted to the event. In 1919 it was reorganized as the Appleton District Camp Meeting Association.

Permanent frame buildings began to replace the tents. The Edward Bruegges, Lark, acquired the first cottage rights in 1921. The Walter and Arthur Schneider families of rural Appleton followed suit in 1924, the year the tabernacle was built.

The camp today operates under the name of Forest Assembly Grounds, Inc. The current corporation is the result of a reorganization effected in 1951 after the Evangelical and United Brethren denominations merged in 1946.

The layout here is not a camp in the sense of today's values. There is no lake, no stream, no boating, no swimming, no fishing. There are no bridle paths or hiking trails. But there are facilities for simple forms of recreation.

Popularity Ebbs

And though the popularity of camp meetings, once a flourishing facet of religious worship throughout the Midwest, has long subsided, the gatherings here continue with unabated attendance. Whether from religious motives, or otherwise, hundreds of persons from near and distant points pass through the gate in the course of each annual encampment.

Those who attend enjoy the appearances of ecclesiastical Abbott. "Westminster Abbey, and other dignitaries. Former though part of the Church of Gov. Fred R. Zimmermann England, is entirely nonsectarian. We feel the abbey belongs to the bishops of the denomination. We only exclude as guest speakers are those who exclude themselves."

The abbey's 900th year coincides with completion of the restoration of its interior, which was begun at the time of Queen Elizabeth II's coronation in 1953. The stonework now looks cleaner than for many years.

Isle of Thorns

The Isle of Thorns amidst the riverside marshes of Westminster, some miles to the west of the old City of London, first had a monastic foundation as early as the 7th century. The Great Church of Abbey of St. Peter was finished by King Edward the Confessor in 1063. The king, who was afterward declared a saint, is buried there.

The first king crowned in Westminster Abbey was William the Conqueror, on Christmas Day of 1066. All subsequent English monarchs have been crowned there except two — and they were both Edwards.

Edward V was one of the ill-fated boy princes murdered in the Tower of London in 1483, perhaps by order of their uncle who succeeded to the throne as King Richard III.

Edward VIII abdicated the throne in 1936 to marry the American divorcee, Wallis Warfield Simpson. He is today the Duke of Windsor, uncle of the queen.

Edwards Abbey

Practically nothing remains of Edward the Confessor's abbey. The great Gothic building, across the street from the Houses of Parliament dates from King Henry III, who died in 1272. He pulled down Edward's church to erect what he called "the most lovely and lovable thing in Christendom."

The new abbey was built in the early English style with pointed arches and lancet windows. It was largely modelled on Rheims.

It was King Richard II who had the job completed, extending the great nave further westward at the end of the 14th century. He lies buried with his wife, Anne of Bohemia, in the abbey.

Today the abbey enjoys special status as what is called a Royal Peculiar. That means that it does not form part of the Diocese of London but is directly under the Queen's own jurisdiction. Even the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Michael Ramsey, who is primate of all England and spiritual head of the Church of England, cannot enter Westminster Abbey unless the dean invites him.

Arrangements for the 9th century celebrations are thus entirely in the hands of Dean Abbott and the Abbey Chapter, the governing body of canons. To get plans launched, the dean called newsmen to a modern cocktail party in his historic 14th century residence, which was originally part of the abbot's house adjoining the abbey. There is the historic Jerusalem chamber — where King Henry IV died after suffering a coronary while at prayer; and his son, Henry V, tried on the crown in his presence, a scene immortalized by Shakespeare — the dean said the main events of the commemoration year would fall on the feast days of St. Benedict whose monks started the foundation; St. Peter, for whom the abbey is named; and St. Edward the Confessor who built the original abbey.

The dean hopes there will be a full representation of monks from Benedictine abbeys in Europe — not least those from Monte Cassino, the Italian monastery destroyed in World War II and since rebuilt — for St. Benedict's Day, March 21.

Shrine for Kings and Queens

England's Westminster Abbey To Celebrate 900th Anniversary

By GODFREY ANDERSON
LONDON (AP) — Westminster Abbey, the shrine where England's kings and queens are crowned, is preparing for the 900th anniversary of its consecration in 1065.

The commemoration will last a full year — from next Dec. 28 to Dec. 28, 1966.

"We have chosen the theme One People to give unity, structure and coherence to the events of the year," says Dean Eric S. Abbott. "Westminster Abbey, and other dignitaries. Former though part of the Church of Gov. Fred R. Zimmermann England, is entirely nonsectarian. We feel the abbey belongs to the bishops of the denomination. We only exclude as guest speakers are those who exclude themselves."

The abbey's 900th year coincides with completion of the restoration of its interior, which was begun at the time of Queen Elizabeth II's coronation in 1953. The stonework now looks cleaner than for many years.

The POWER of FAITH

Brooks Hays, Congressman, advisor to Presidents, and to educators had the beginnings of his faith in what he has referred to as a quadrangle of house, church, school and courthouse in the little town of Russellville, Ark.

As a young man he was torn between being a minister or a politician. After 16 years in Congress he was defeated because of his stand on civil rights. But this did not deter him from continuing to fight for the cause.

In a recent talk to a college group he was asked, "What is the American dream?" Among the many things he mentioned were equality, freedom, brotherhood and justice. He said, "It is the vision of open doors of opportunity, it is the hope of human dignity made secure." And he concluded, "It is the vision of a citizenry drawn together in mutual confidence, facing common evils and exalting a common faith in God."

The Water Decision

The Post-Crescent will not quarrel with the decision of the Appleton Common Council to go to Lake Winnebago for its water supply. In fact the Council is to be complimented for coming to a decision on the matter once a majority voted against putting the matter to the city's voters in an advisory referendum.

Practically everyone agrees that the eventual solution to the city's water problem will be a pipeline to Lake Michigan. But there is a very good question when this should be done. It certainly makes more sense for all of the communities in this area to undertake such a venture as a cooperative project, and now that Appleton, Neenah, Menasha and Oshkosh will all be drawing from Lake Winnebago the likelihood in such a joint decision may become possible in the future.

The Insurance Commissioner

Political critics of Gov. Warren P. Knowles are trying to transform into a political issue the idea that he intends to replace Charles Manson as commissioner of the State Department of Insurance, one of the major regulatory departments of the state government. Because the circumstances surrounding the argument are fairly complex, there may be a chance that they will succeed, since the other legitimate issues arising out of the new state administration's performance thus far don't offer much promise of popular response for the opposition party.

Mr. Manson was once the proprietor of an insurance agency at Wausau. As far as we know, he was a successful representative of the underwriters and insurance customers he served. In his political responses, he tended to be a Democrat. He was one of the supporters of Gaylord Nelson, when the former governor ran for the executive office for the first time in 1958. When he was elected, Gov. Nelson resolved to relieve the Republican incumbent commissioner, Paul J. Rogan, of his duties. That was an expected and natural thing. A man does not run for office, nor do the voters support him, for the purpose of keeping at their desks appointive and policy controlling officials of the defeated party.

Faithful Democrats among insurance men are not numerous. Gov. Nelson remembered Mr. Manson, invited him to take the appointment, and won his confirmation from a Republican state senate for a four year term. Two years ago former Gov. Reynolds, again quite naturally, remembering Manson's Democratic allegiance, invited him to stay. But public officials and their employees are prone to error, even as are the lesser breeds, and during a parliamentary

Most of the investment in a Lake Winnebago system will be salvageable should the city eventually turn to Lake Michigan.

The really important aspect of the matter is that the city proceed posthaste to get its intake out of the Fox River. Water Superintendent William Gallaher has been on a hot seat for some years in adequately treating the river water. He told the Council that a report from the U.S. Public Health Service labels Fox River water as "one of the worst waters treated by any water plant in the United States."

The Water Department and the Board of Public Works can now take immediate steps to initiate the Lake Winnebago project and they and all residents of Appleton must be relieved that the decision has been made.

maneuver involving a raise in salary and the need for a reappointment to suit the constitutional proprieties, a clerk wrote into the official papers an erroneous date.

That was the origin of the supposed "conspiracy."

Critics insist that there was a shady plan to get rid of the commissioner by indirection. Gov. Knowles spiked that, as far as we are concerned, when he publicly declared weeks ago that he had no intention of using that clerical clumsiness as a pretext for dismissing Manson. As far as he was concerned, he said at a public news conference, Mr. Manson was entitled to remain for the full length of his intended new term, into 1967.

But now the attorney general has ruled that the Manson tenure is faulty, to the extent that he has passed the mandatory retirement age for state employees. The attorney general is Bronson C. LaFollette, a Democrat, and presumably a friend of the commissioner. It will be difficult to show that the Republican governor plotted in this regard, unless it is suggested that Mr. Knowles has been able to control Mr. LaFollette's legal opinions.

Thus it appears likely that Mr. Manson's tenure as chief of his department will be relatively short. We doubt that he is especially surprised, given his own considerable background in political affairs. We doubt, moreover, that he will have any cause for complaint. He was not recruited on the basis of his expert knowledge of economic regulation. He was chosen as the friend of a former governor. His party lost the election last fall. The new governor has the right, and we suppose will use it, to install in this important place a man of his own choosing even as did the commissioner's friend five years earlier.

New Crisis in Malaysia

The expulsion of Singapore from the Federation of Malaysia is another disturbing sign of the instability in much of Asia.

There were a number of reasons for the decision by the Prime Minister of Malaysia, Prince Abdul Rahman, that Singapore would have to go. Certainly the major one was the simmering racial distrust and strife between the Malays and the ethnic Chinese. When the Federation was formed, largely through British influence, efforts were made to keep the number of Chinese and Malays fairly equal to try to avoid such strife. But the fear by the Malays of increased Chinese influence and that it might lead to Chinese domination of the Federation continued to grow. It was accentuated by the propaganda of the far-left Chinese in Singapore with ties to Peking and the extremists in Malaya who wanted nothing to do with the Chinese. Warnings of the explosive situation emphasized that an outbreak would be as vicious as that between Hindus and Moslems when India and Pakistan become independent.

In agreeing to leave the Federation, the Singapore Prime Minister, Lee Kuan Yew, has pledged continued cooperation, economically and politically, with the Malays. This includes keeping the British military bases in Singapore and not making any treaties or agreements with other nations without agreement of the Federation. But how long this intention will last is speculative. Once Singapore restores economic and diplomatic relations with Indonesia, it will not need the British military base for economic reasons and it may not be able to keep it for political reasons. Government spokesmen in Jakarta have indicated a willingness to restore relations with Singapore but they probably will insist that the military alliance with Britain be abandoned. Singapore has already announced it wants trade ties with Communist countries and that it would accept a trade mission from the Soviet Union.

The acceptance of secession of course is a fine propaganda triumph for President Sukarno of Indonesia who has claimed all along that the Federation was artificially set up by the British to protect their interests and undermine Indonesia. Certainly he will now put increased pressure on the Borneo states of Sarawak and Subah to leave the Federation and join Indonesia.

The outlook in the whole area is discouraging. Prime Minister Lee, who strongly favored the alliance with Malaya, will be under a considerable amount of pressure now from Peking sources to swing into the Red oriented orbit which Indonesia and Cambodia have already accepted. The British, instead of being able to get out of the area—one of the main reasons for encouraging the establishment of the Federation—will find themselves even more committed to military defense of the area unless they get out altogether. They have been shifting forces and policies of defense from Singapore to Australia but it is unlikely that they can leave completely with honor.

Efforts of Communists and others who play along with Red policies are certain to be stepped up in much of Southeast Asia now.

Atlanta Has Praise for Milwaukee

From The Atlanta Constitution

Milwaukee has lost its National League baseball team to Atlanta, but that does not mean that Milwaukee is ready to be scratched from the civic lineup and sent to the showers.

In fact, the Milwaukee County Park Commission claims, Milwaukee is undergoing a sort of renaissance. Acres of old downtown buildings have been demolished to make way for parks, apartments, free-ways, and various private and public buildings, including a new lakefront marina. A drive to raise $6 million for a performing arts center went $700,000 over the goal, and the center is to be completed in 1967.

We might wish that Milwaukee's county officials could have been more graceful about losing the Braves to Atlanta, but Milwaukee nevertheless rates a salute for its evident civic hustle.

The point of the commission's letter is that the 1965 national conference of the American Institute of Park Executives will be held in Milwaukee in September, and the Milwaukee officials are looking forward to the opportunity to show folks what the city is doing.

The conference program came with the letter. There'll be a wide variety of discussions about playgrounds, golf courses, open spaces and other recreational facilities.

It is hoped that some of our local officials, who thus far have been slow to recognize the value of public acquisition of the No. 2 East Lake golf course, will be sure to have representatives there.

Goldberg Sets Out to Solve U.N. Financial Crisis as First Project

BY MAX HARRELSON

Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — (AP)—The U.S. financial crisis is ranked by Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg as the No. 1 problem he inherited when he became chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations.

Taking up his post, the Supreme Court justice told newsmen at U.N. headquarters:

"If we do not put our own house in order, I doubt if we will succeed in putting other houses in order."

He meant that he would give top priority to ending the deadlock over Soviet voting rights which paralyzed the General Assembly throughout its last session.

Goldberg already has sought to enlist the United Nations in the search for peace in Viet Nam, and he will be called upon to defend U.S. policies on the Dominican Republic. He also will lead the fight to keep Red China out of the world organization.

But most U.N. observers agree that what happens on the financial problem is critical for the United Nations. Some say further that Goldberg's handling of the question could have an important bearing on his own public image.

Will he emerge, for example, as an appeaser or will he take a tough line? Will he increase his reputation as a negotiator, or will he find himself in the same difficulties which frustrated his predecessor, Adlai Stevenson?

The basic issue in the financial crisis is what to do about Article 19 of the U.N. charter. This provides that members will lose their vote in the General Assembly if they fail two years behind in paying assessments.

The Soviet Union, France and 11 other countries are in this category. But there is a dispute over the legality of peace-keeping assessments, which make up most of the deficit. The delinquent countries say these special levies are invalid—because they were voted by the Assembly rather than the Security Council. The United States disagrees.

A showdown was averted during the past session of the Assembly by a no-vote truce, but only a few housekeeping decisions were taken.

Goldberg has acknowledged that the United States is now reviewing its policy and has not yet decided what to do. It is generally believed at the United Nations that chances of a confrontation have all but vanished.

U.N. observers have concluded that the United States could not get enough support to win in the event of a showdown. It has been noted also that Assistant Secretary of State Harlan Cleveland, chief architect of the headline policy on Article 19, is leaving the State Department and that Goldberg has taken a leading role in the policy review. His intensive consultations with members of Congress are seen as a sign that he is trying to sell a new approach.

The central question apparently is how the United States can retreat from its tough stand with the minimum amount of embarrassment.

Goldberg has indicated that he hopes to unveil the U.S. position to the Assembly's 33-nation committee on peace-keeping when it meets Aug. 16. If an agreement can be reached, the results will be sent to the Assembly, which will resume its 19th session Sept. 1. The way would thus be cleared for normal voting at the 20th session, which opens Sept. 21.

Apart from the specific issues mentioned above, Goldberg faces two personal challenges. He succeeds the popular Adlai Stevenson, whose prestige was never higher than the time of his death July 14. And he must overcome an initial coolness on the part of Arab delegations because he is Jewish. Those who know him well say he will have no serious difficulty on either count. He made an unusually good impression on his first brief appearance at U.S. headquarters.

State VFW Expresses Its Thanks

From Wisconsin Veteran

The 44th convention at Appleton was a great success. Applauds are due to Harvey Pierre Post No. 2773 and its Auxiliary for the excellent arrangements made for the annual parley.

And our personal observation was that the officials of Appleton and its citizens went all out to make the delegates and visitors from throughout the state welcome guests. It is evident that it is a progressive and enlightened community and its future is bright.

We sincerely thank you, Appleton, for your friendliness, courtesies, and hospitality, and we hope that you really like us. S. R.

Extremist Tide Must Be Stemmed

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Finally someone has exposed the real problem threatening Americans today. While the Communist threat is most certainly a real one, the threat posed by the militant right wing is as unique and just as dangerous. These deluded Communist hunters are continually ranting and raving about Communists in the government. Now, as Congressman Race has pointed out, they are even arming themselves. The time has passed when we could just laugh them off.

Congressman Race has challenged the federal government to do something to stem the extremist tide. It is a challenge that must be accepted if we are to continue to live as free Americans.

Looking Backward

Thieves and Burglars Around

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Aug. 19, 1865.

On Sunday night last, Mr. Tichenor's residence in the First Ward, was entered by marauders, evidently looking for money.

The family, sleeping upstairs, heard some noise, but supposing it to be the wind, paid little attention to it. In the morning, the doors were found open, proving conclusively that they had been forced. Nothing, however, was missed, as doubtless the scamp was after money and nothing else.

Then a few nights since a dark-lantern house-fancier undertook to appropriate Mr. Kendrick's horse or horses from the stable near his house, but the noise alarmed some of the family and the thief escaped in the darkness.

A couple of fellows made an attempt to break into a residence in the Third Ward after dark, of course, but they were detected and chase was made after them, but they also made tracks too fast for the pursuers.

The only way to deal with such prowlers is to be prepared to chase them with balls, not by a good revolver, and fired to hit, at that. A few examples will demonstrate that the same or prevention well applied will effect a cure of these evils.

Hanson's Neutrality Edict Doesn't Make Much Political Sense

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON—In politics there are many things done and said for the record rather than out of any serious belief that they will change the course of events. The declaration of Chairman Louis Hanson of the Democratic State Committee that officers of the party organization at all levels should maintain a neutral stance about contested office nominations or "get out" is a handy current example.

Wyngaard

Probably under the literal rules of the party organization which maintains a posture of criticism of the idea of pre-primary endorsement of candidates, Hanson felt obliged to make such a statement. Probably too from his own viewpoint, running the party machinery would be more comfortable and tidy without the distraction of internal rivalries and the diversion of the energies and money of some of his lieutenants into a gubernatorial nomination contest more than a year before the balloting.

But in realistic terms, Hanson's warning is likely to have no perceptible effect. The troops within the party machine will continue to line up for and against prospective gubernatorial candidates and particularly for and against Lt. Gov. Patrick J. Lucey, an National Committeeman David Carley, whatever hurt to Mr. Hanson's sense of propriety may follow.

THE PRINCIPLE

Aside from the probable futility of the caveat by the titular head of the party machinery, the Hanson definition of the etiquette of the situation for the party officials of all ranks raises the question of motive and function of the party worker and officer.

There are a couple hundred such functionaries, at the least, perhaps as many as a thousand, if the statutory and voluntary committee members of all the counties and the district and the state committees are included.

These are the most loyal and active and creative and energetic of the partisans. They were elected by their fellows. The chances are that they were chosen because of their records of performance and stature as Democratic local leaders.

But are such men and women to be confined to selling tickets and running doorbells and attending meetings and advising on postmaster appointments only?

Or are they chosen as true leaders whose rank and experience entitles them to influence the judgment and the action of those others within the party whose belief in their competence elevated them to the party offices in the first instance? The essential function of a party organization is the development of program and the recruitment and promotion of candidates for governmental office. If that essential role is prohibited, the idea of responsible partisan activity is negated.

WHO'S WHO

The Hanson statement was generally interpreted as an oblique criticism of Lucey, who has been lining up the Democratic organization faithful with some success, and whose prompt response indicated that he guessed also what Hanson had in mind. Moreover the hearty universal belief in Democratic politics is that Hanson's own private favorite for next year's nomination is Mr. Carley, however careful he has been in avoiding any overt bias in his official work as party manager.

Yet literally construed Mr. Carley would be obliged to give up his own ranking party office under the Hanson definition of neutrality.

Carley is the Democratic national committeeman for the state, one of the highest and most important offices. There is no doubt about his own preference for the Democratic nomination next year. He has been campaigning for support for himself with considerable assiduity. Must he resign his party position, as the price of his ambition, the credulous reader of Mr. Hanson's order may ask?

Tells Appleton Mayor Stay Out of Menasha

Editor, Post-Crescent:

As a resident of the City of Menasha I would like to ask, what is the mayor of the City of Appleton doing at a meeting of the town of Menasha? I should think he and the City of Appleton have enough problems of their own without sticking his nose in the affairs of the town and the City of Menasha. For one, the water problem in Appleton is quite serious. Am I right?

As to the town meeting, in reference to Mr. Jacob's statement about the Menasha Corp. being off the city tax rolls I would like to ask him how come the town didn't do everything in its power to have the Menasha Corp. relocate there? I understand there were some suburban officials who didn't want to help them relocate.

The statement about Neenah and Appleton cooperating with the town really makes me laugh. What do they care about the Town of Menasha, except to hinder the growth of Menasha? Yes, I mean growth. Because they are growing in all directions they would like to see Menasha become a ghost town as you have referred to it in the past. Is his honor the mayor of Appleton afraid to see the city limits of Menasha right next door to Appleton? He's probably afraid of new business places being built in Menasha and the Menasha people spending most of their money here in Menasha, instead of Appleton.

As to Mr. Franchette's statement, he probably would not like to see the city expand either. Who is he to say whether the city should or shouldn't use the annexed land for an industrial park? Maybe Mr. Franchette is afraid of having Menasha for a neighbor too.

Private Armies Should Be Banned Under Law

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I must think anyone who has heard the name of the Minutemen Band performing a public service by pointing out the danger which a private group pose to honest citizens. Groups such as the Minutemen must be banned if we are to have a free society.

These men are trained to kill and are equipped with the best of modern weapons. They are a threat to the peace and safety of the community.

I sincerely hope that the Legislature will take appropriate action to ban private armies.

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON—The search has begun for a new president of Wisconsin State University-LaCrosse to succeed veteran President Rexford Mitchell in February, 1966.

Eugene Murphy, LaCrosse transportation company executive and a senior member of the board of regents of state colleges, has been named chairman of a special committee of the regents which will receive applications for the appointment.

and past appointments have shown no pattern of preference or policy. Some school heads were promoted from within the system. Others, like Mitchell, came from outside jobs.

Regents expect to get from 100 to 150 applications, most of which will be screened by the Murphy committee before personal interviews are undertaken with the most promising aspirants remaining. In the final selection process the whole board of regents typically participates.

Armed Troops in Racial Riot Area

riot eruption. Another sniper was seriously wounded. Taylor said both were Negroes.

Fifty-two police officers, eight firemen, and two guardsmen were injured as the military reinforcements joined in the battle to quell the looting and burning. More than 300 civilians were hurt.

Over 500 rioters were arrested. Police reopened a long-closed jail to house the prisoners.

Isolated instances of looting, burning or fighting spread to downtown Los Angeles, West Los Angeles, Pasadena, the Wilshire district and elsewhere.

Around 2 a.m. a task force of guardsmen and shotgun-armed police began a massive drive to halt a looting burning mob heading toward the downtown area.

Gasoline Bombs

A heavy guard was thrown around the Civic Center police headquarters after rioters tossed gasoline bombs started a fire only 13 blocks away.

Cars that had prowled on foot switched to cars and drove to new districts to cause trouble, police said.

The fire department estimated that flames alone caused $100 million damage. At least 1,000 firemen were on the job. The sky glowed orange from countless blazes but there also were dark patches where power had failed.

Police arrested looters with cars piled high and stacked the snuff on sidewalks. Some piles were five and six feet high. As officers worked, snipers fired from rooftops and speeding autos. Police returned the fire.

Two firemen were shot as they battled one of more than 100 major fires set by mobs of looters.

Hi-Run Car

A hit-run car hurtled into a National Guard skirmish line injuring one. Officers fired on the car and two suspects were arrested. One was wounded.

More than 2,000 guardsmen moved in on hot spots of violence and 3,000 more were in reserve in neighboring counties.

Within hours guard officers said "the operation is going very well."

The troops were mobilized Friday after nearly 1,000 law enforcement officers, overwhelmingly outnumbered by rioters turning wild over several square miles, said they couldn't handle the situation.

As guardsmen marched in the South Side was a scene of incredible confusion. Scores of buildings looted and burned, millions of dollars in merchandise stolen or destroyed, gun battles and fist fights between officers and rioters cars overturned and burned.

The slain deputy, Ronald E. Ludlow, 27, was shot in the stomach as he and a partner tried to drive looters from a blazing store. He died in the emergency room of St. Francis Hospital in Loswood.

Requests by Mayor

The National Guard was called in after repeated requests by Mayor Samuel Yorty and Police Chief William H. Parker. He said their force of nearly 1,000 men could no longer cope with the violence.

By midafternoon Friday, rioters began overturning barricades. Looting and fires spread from a few blocks to several square miles.

Li Gov. Glenn M. Anderson had been stopped by a blown-out car on the guard shortly after flying here from the state and by automatic weapons fire.

Enlistments of Navy, Marine Men Extended neither reservists on active duty nor those who already have volunteered to extend their enlistments. It goes into effect Aug. 20 for Marine Corps enlistments and Sept. 15 for Navy enlistments.

The number of men affected was not known immediately. It was learned that Nitze signed the order shortly after 6 p.m. Friday night.

The Navy's personnel needs stem from several causes.

General Buildup

For one, a general buildup triggered by the Viet Nam conflict is bringing more ships into the service. More men are needed for such support craft as amphibious ships and to fill out ship crews which are currently under strength.

In addition, shore stations that contribute directly to the support of the Viet Nam war need men.

On July 28, defense officials announced that for the first time since early 1956 the Navy would draw on selective service for manpower. An announcement 10 days ago said that the Navy would get 4,600 men from the October draft call of 33,600.

of peace charges. But four—all under 21—were charged with being drunk.

The protests began in July after police dispersed a crowd that had gathered before a Springfield night spot and arrested 18 persons, 17 of them Negroes.

Civil rights leaders charged seven officers with brutality and took the case to the police commission. The commission agreed to hear the misconduct allegations but only after the court cases against those arrested were concluded.

The chief demand of the protesting groups is that the city reassign the seven accused officers so they have no further contact with the public.

Twigg said more demonstrators were to arrive today from Boston and New Haven, Conn. Most of those picketing were in their 20s.

U.S. Patrol Uncovers Most Primitive People

PLEI HO DRONG, South Viet Nam (AP)—Searching for Communist guerrillas in a tribal village, U.S. paratroopers ran into some of the world's most primitive people.

The suspenseful encounter Friday ended in a round of handshakes.

The 28-man unit from the 1st Battalion of the 173rd Airborne Brigade went in helicopters to check out the Montagnard village south of contested Route 19 in the highlands. Route 19 connects Pleiku and the besieged special forces camp at Duc Co.

An armored unit previously called out by a blown-out bridge over the Ia Drang River and by automatic weapons fire.

The paratroopers moved cautiously toward the village, gripping their rifles.

Shacks on Stilts

Forty grass shacks sat on stilts about four feet off the ground. Two of the huts had been set afire by rockets from a helicopter flying support.

Then there were shouts from the head of the column. Two hands appeared from a hole in the ground, followed by long, bushy hair. Finally a man appeared clad only in an old French military coat and a loin cloth.

Sgt. James L. Walters of Muskegon, Mich., the lead man, pointed his automatic weapon at the emerging figure. Another figure came out of the tiny hole. Then another and another. In all, 11 tiny figures emerged from the bunker.

Three were children and one old man with a goatee. The old man extended his left hand as if to shake hands and was of chicken and noodles with her holding it with his right. This is teeth. A sergeant gave her an ancient tribal gesture to can opener and she put it to show that his feelings came work scratching lice in her hair from the heart.

But no one moved to shake his round of handshaking. And the hand the paratroopers still held people who had cowered in their rifles at the ready.

Finally, a tall Negro sergeant choppers rose from the jungle slung his automatic weapon clearing.

Shainwold Simple Play Can Assure Game Win

When you have four trumps in your own hand and only three in dummy, you must take care to keep control. You must usually set up your tricks before drawing trumps, and you must defend your trump suit in the meantime.

South was sorry to be in four spades instead of five clubs, but the bidding was far from outlandish. He had to swallow his sorrow and concentrate on the play.

South won the first trick with the ace of hearts, ruffed a heart in dummy and returned a low club from dummy. East cleverly played low, and South won with the jack of clubs.

Declarer ruffed his other heart in dummy, cashed the ace of clubs and the king of spades, and then gave up a club. West got rid of his last heart on third round of clubs and East thereupon led a fourth round of hearts.

In Trouble

South was in trouble. When South ruffed low, West over-ruffed and returned a diamond. East was sure to get a diamond trick, and West got another trump trick when East led his last heart.

Life became very complicated for South when he took the first trick. The best play is simple, but unusual: he must refuse the first heart.

East's best defense is to return a heart, making dummy ruff. Declarer draws two rounds of trumps with the king and queen and then leads a low club from dummy.

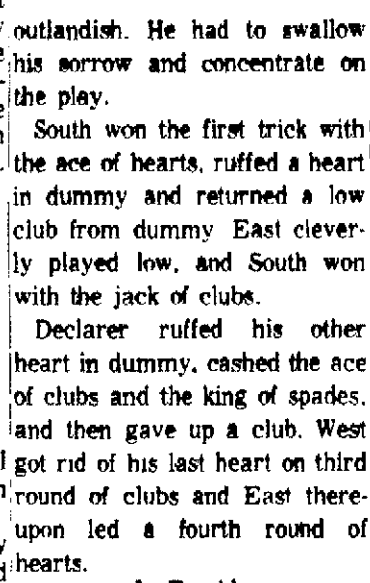

Whenever East takes the king of clubs he can return a heart, but South still has the ace of hearts to win the trick. South draws the last two trumps and takes the rest of the tricks in dummy with the ace of diamonds and good clubs.

Daily Question

Dealer bids one heart, your partner doubles, and the next player passes. You hold: S 9 8 3 2, H J 9 7 2, D 9 7 5, C 7 6. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one spade. The weaker your hand, the more essential the takeout. If your partner is reliable you will not be in serious trouble with this response.

Ann Tells Woman to Save Flag That Draped Mate's Casket

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several weeks ago my husband was killed in Viet Nam. I was presented with the flag which was draped over his casket. My teenage son wants to fly the flag from a flagpole in our front yard. Would this be proper? Thank you for your advice. — MKT

Dear MKT: It would be proper, but I don't think you should do it. A flag which is flown from a pole will in time become faded and weather-beaten.

That particular flag is irreplaceable. It should be preserved for your son to hand down to his son.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What is your opinion of people who subject guests to the boredom of watching their dog do tricks? I don't mean anything spectacular. I mean everyday, run-of-the-mill stuff that almost every dog owner teaches his pet.

It's bad enough to have to sit and listen to a child recite, "The Man Stood On The Burning Deck," or play the "Minuet in G" on the piano, but when in the baby or in me. I finally guests are herded into the living room to watch a mutt roll over suggested that we both get and play dead or beg for a bone counseling through our minister. It's just too much. These same but I didn't see any hope for friends have taught their dog to salvaging the situation. I insist—pray" which I find not only on a divorce.

boring but a sacrifice.

Please don't get me wrong. Ann, I am not a sourpuss who hates pets. I love animals, but I feel it's an imposition to ask Van has paid support for our child but he never comes to see her. It has been six months since Sally has seen her daddy although he lives less than fifteen minutes away.

I heard yesterday that Van married a sorority sister of mine. I never cared for the girl and the feeling was mutual. Now I'm afraid she will fix things so Van will never see Sally. Please tell me what to do. I feel helpless. — Midnight Blue

Dear Blue: You concede your ex-husband ignored Sally before he married so why blame his continuing lack of interest on his new wife?

I can offer you only sympathy. I know of no way to get spilled milk back in the bottle. Yours is a classic example of a woman who busted up her marriage in haste and is repenting at leisure.

What is French kissing? Is it wrong? Who should set the necking limits—the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Sex — Ten Ways to Cool It." adults to watch a dog go through a corny routine. How about it? — Dog Tired

Dear Tired: An ordinary mutt doing everyday, run-of-the-mill tricks shouldn't take more than five minutes. If you can't spare five minutes to watch a proud master put his dog through a few paces, then you are a sourpuss who hates pets.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I married very young. I was 20, Van was 22. We fought over everything under the sun — his folks, my folks, money, religion, politics, sex — just name it and we had a battle over it.

The second year of our marriage our daughter Sally was born. Things went from bad to worse. He showed no interest

Dear Folks:

There are mops, mops, and mops!

But, since we have to mop, it's real nice to find one that will not lose strings, sour, or wear out in a short period of time. But, where are you going to find one?

Make your own if you have, or can find, an old, oil-mop and scrap books, an old telephone book makes a dandy one.

Just paste two pages together to give the page body and you are ready to start your scrap book.

A GOOD MIXER

The French, like the Romans, are renowned for their love of beauty—their flair for living. This is evident in the graceful, flowing lines, the subtlety of detail, and the delicacy of color in authentic French Provincial furnishings.

Today's adaptations though scaled and modified to fit current needs reflect all the refinement and beauty of the originals. One of the endearing qualities of this style is that it is such a "good mixer." It fits well into formal as well as informal settings, and blends nicely with contemporary and traditional designs.

French Provincial rooms of the present differ from their ancestors largely in the matter of color. The muted, faded tones have given way to gay, brighter hues.

The room sketched above has been keyed to today. A color scheme of blue-violet, bitter green, and muted gold forms a delightful background for the furniture. Tie-back draperies in two tones of blue-violet cascade to the floor over soft, offwhite glass panels which filter glare. Pale gold sofa stands out importantly above bitter green carpet. Touches of cyclamen pink appear in the accessories.

Looking for attractive furnishings that will blend well with your existing pieces? You'll find them right here in our store. Beautifully designed models in many styles. Come in soon, won't you, we'd enjoy having your browse around.

Clerk Denies Connection With Phone Campaign

MENASHA — Town of Menasha Clerk Robert Jacobs Friday said he has no connection with a telephone campaign reported originating from some town residents warning City of Menasha residents of an increase in taxes through purchase of an industrial park.

A story in Friday's Post-Crescent Neenah-Menasha Twin City-News Record quoted Jacobs statement at a town meeting Monday night where he warned of a possibility of increased city taxes to pay for purchase of an industrial site to be annexed from town.

Jacobs said possibly some town residents who heard the meeting may have picked it up and begun calling city residents. Jacobs said he has, in no way, any connection with the campaign and that it was done without his knowledge.

Menasha K of C List Committees For '65-66 Year

The next meeting of the Knights will be 8 p.m. Aug. 19. Joe Gajewski will present the program.

Prairie du Chien Has Sand Beach—Thanks to Flood on Mississippi

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN (AP) — Out of the Mississippi River floods has been born a new beach for Prairie du Chien.

Residents of this western Wisconsin city, besieged with water this spring, will have a place to take to water this summer because of the efforts of 60 teenagers working in the cleanup program as a part of the federal Youth Corps project.

The teen-agers, paid $1.25 an hour the last six weeks, left for their homes in the area Friday after finishing not only restoring the flood debris-littered area to its original condition, but also clearing away underbrush and building a sandy swimming beach along the river.

Governor Plans Beauty Conference

MADISON (AP) — A Governor's Conference on Natural Beauty in Wisconsin — to "run the full gamut of outdoor house-keeping" — was scheduled Friday by Gov. Warren P. Knowles for Oct. 12-13 at Waukesha.

Knowles said the conference would be modeled after White House efforts and invited Secretary of Interior Stewart Udall to attend.

"We are speaking now of one of Wisconsin's major assets — its outdoor scenic beauty," said Knowles, "and we are looking for this conference to cover all facets of the subject."

5-Man Committee to Redraw Ward Lines in New London

Area Located In Waupaca Changing

NEW LONDON—A five-man committee has been named to work out a plan for reappportioning the city's four wards in Waupaca County.

The third ward, which is located in Outagamie County, would have no bearing on any realignment in the other four wards as far as choosing supervisors.

Emil Gehrke was named as chairman of the group at the Aug. 2 meeting of the planning commission. Gehrke, fourth ward county supervisor, was a member of the Waupaca County reappportioning committee.

Appointed to the committee were William Freiburger, Alfred Lau, Lansing, McFaul and Len Rice.

Committee Members
Freiburger was a member of the planning commission until last winter when he resigned.

Lau is a member of the board of education and McFaul and Rice are former aldermen.

In 1960 New London had a population of 5,288, with 4,066 of these living in Waupaca County.

Reapportioning of county supervisors by the county was done on the use of the census figures. Information to be used in a city directory will be put to use in apportioning the city and setting new boundary lines.

Wanda Huebner was hired by the city to keep a block by block tally of the population as she gathered directory information for use in the reapportionment.

Word May Be Divided
Where the boundary lines will be set is only conjecture at this time since the committee has not met to date.

A general feeling among city officials, however, is that the second and fifth wards, located north of the Wolf River, would be made into one ward and the south side split into three wards.

At first glance, using Census Bureau figures, this appears to persons, using the census figures, the second and fifth wards would be a total of 1,183 persons, using the census figures.

This leaves a 1960 population of 2,883 persons in the first and fourth wards to be divided into three districts. With growth as it has been over the five years since the census, it is believed these wards would have about 1,000 persons each.

New London's third ward has a population of 1,222 persons, but is being reapportioned under Outagamie County.

Basin Regional Commission Unanimously Re-elects Officers An Annual Meeting in Laona

LAONA — A 1966 budget of $43,331, up $3,631 over last year's $37,700, was adopted at the annual meeting of the Wolf River Basin Regional Planning Commission Thursday in this Forest County community.

Officers unanimously re-elected were Gordon A. Bubolz, Appleton, chairman, Jerome Grignon, Neopit, vice-chairman, Alfred Broehm, Winneconne, secretary, and Henry Allhiser, Shawano, treasurer.

Of the $43,331 budget, $27,047 will be raised by tax levy from the eight member counties. A $16,284 surplus is expected at the end of the present year.

A breakdown of the counties and their share of the budget which is based on equalized valuation is Forest, $366, Langlade, $1,078, Menominee, $277, Outagamie, $9,697; Shawano, $1,975; Waupaca, $2,458; Waushara, $1,048, and Winnebago, $10,118.

The largest increase in the budget came in wages and related expenses of the planning staff from $15,000 to $27,500 for a jump of $12,500.

An additional $7,500 will be raised via tax levy for promotional purposes. Portions of this will be used for a promotion brochure, sports show representation and operation of a regional information center during the summer for tourists.

The commissioners were told of a need for a hydrologist, a land use man, a draftsman, a design specialist and an economic specialist.

In a chairman's report, Bubolz listed the accomplishments during the past year which included the blocking of a bill to purchase 200,000 acres of land in Menominee County. Grignon said the support of the commission has upped the morale of the newest Wisconsin county.

Bubolz also listed aims of the oncoming year as combating destruction of the beauty and wild river features of Menominee County in trying to work out a feasible preservation program.

He pointed out other projects being sponsored by the commission which include Mt. Morris Hills projects, high priority recreation lands, roadside beauty work, water resources study, river bank stabilization, community recreation lakes, wildlife development, recreation promotion, preservation of Hayman Falls, aids to local governments, regional legislation and inter-regional cooperation.

Other reports were given by Murel Edinger, Appleton, Wolf River Country Inc., executive secretary; Robert Rogers, Ogdensburg, Forestry Advisory Committee chairman and Vern Gieger, Appleton, Outagamie county soil conservationist.

Walter Johnson, department of research development, presented the final phase of the preliminary plans for the commission. His plan included public improvement needs, a continuing planning program, financial aid program and zoning which will be symbolized when Arthur Nimmer, general contractor, a building and sanitary code.

Nineteen recommendations were brought up by the committee, including the definition of land and water use within 1,000 feet of the water's edge, work on sewage disposal systems and the a proposal to fight public apathy Rev. Harold Warnke, school principal.

The FVL Concert Choir, under the direction of Gerhard Rolloff, will sing "Sateren's 'Praise We God the Father's Name' and 'Lord, My God,' by Luetzel. Kurt Oswald will be organist.

An offering will be taken for the school's equipment fund. The public is invited to attend the open house from 3 to 5:30 p.m. Student guides will conduct tours through the new facilities.

Rule Death Accidental In Drowning

OSHKOSH — Winnebago County Coroner Art C. Miller ruled Friday afternoon that the death of William C. Anderson, 42, Indianapolis, Ind., must be listed as accidental.

Anderson drowned in the Fox River here off Riverside Park about 11 p.m. June 30. Another fishermen who heard the splash when Anderson hit the water turned around and saw two boys running away and had not seen how Anderson entered the water.

'No Evidence'
Miller's decision stated: "After an intensive investigation by the Oshkosh Police Department and the district attorney's office, I find at this time there is no evidence to substantiate William C. Anderson came to his death other than by accidental drowning."

Miller said in the six weeks since the accident, no one has come up with anything about drowning or the identity of the boys who had been talking to Anderson and to another Milwaukee couple who had been fishing shortly before the drowning.
